2. President's Report 2015-2017 (Frank Welz)

A. Building a voice of sociology

For building a voice of sociology, the ESA 2015-2017 Executive Committee (EC) focused more sharply the ESA 2017 conference theme “(Un)Making Europe: Capitalism, Solidarities, Subjectivities” by introducing an additional commonly shared plenary session (opening: Harvey/Illouz; special evening: Della Porta/Varoufakis; closing: Brown/Rosa) as well as 4 new specific semi-plenary and Research Streams sessions that further discussed the main theme (Europe, Capitalism, Solidarities, Subjectivities).

For strengthening ESA's voice for sociology, we extended our Social Science Advocacy by intensifying the collaboration with the European Alliance for Social Sciences and Humanities (EASSH) and the Initiative for Science in Europe (ISE). The President has been elected Governing Board member of the former, task force member of the latter and joined a further initiative related to the Austrian 2018 EU Presidency.

B. Strengthening the ESA Headquarters

For enabling a stronger and proactive ESA, ESA's conference and office operations have been completely restructured following the very successful model of other big associations. Abstract management, author and participant communication, participant registration, as well as the administrative management of the book exhibition have been “relocated” from the local conference organisers to ESA's Paris headquarters. The move has been based on the introduction of the ConfTool conference management software for both, abstract management and participant registration. The move reduces direct conference expenditure for about 170 000 Euro (mainly, first, by increasing control of the budget and, second, by reducing charges for Professional Conference Organisers) and enables ESA to have a stable and safe funding of its employees based on a restructured contractual relationship with the local and local professional conference organisers. The move has enabled ESA to appoint a second employee.

For the first time, ESA has now coordinated conference operations from Paris. Conference payments are done to Paris:¹ for the first time, conference fees and membership fees could be paid by one payment. This innovation already led to an increase of ESA membership by 1/3 from about 2100 members to about 2800 members.

The structural change has further been supported by replacing ESA's bookkeeper by a new one who also talks English and regularly visits the ESA office, by introducing e-banking, by introducing computerised salary management (SAGE ONE PAIE) and bookkeeping software (in progress). Work previously operated manually has been replaced by automated mechanisms via the introduction of software and well-planned organisational changes which had been advised by external experts from accounting, law, bookkeeping, and other scientific associations. ESA has now been put on a new organisational, sustainable and proactive basis.

C. ESA 2015-2017 in short facts

- (1) Restructuration of Conference and Headquarters operations (new contracts, laws, bookkeeping)
- (2) Move of the ESA office to FMSH, Bureau A2-27, 54, boulevard Raspail, 75270 Paris cedex 06, in April 2017

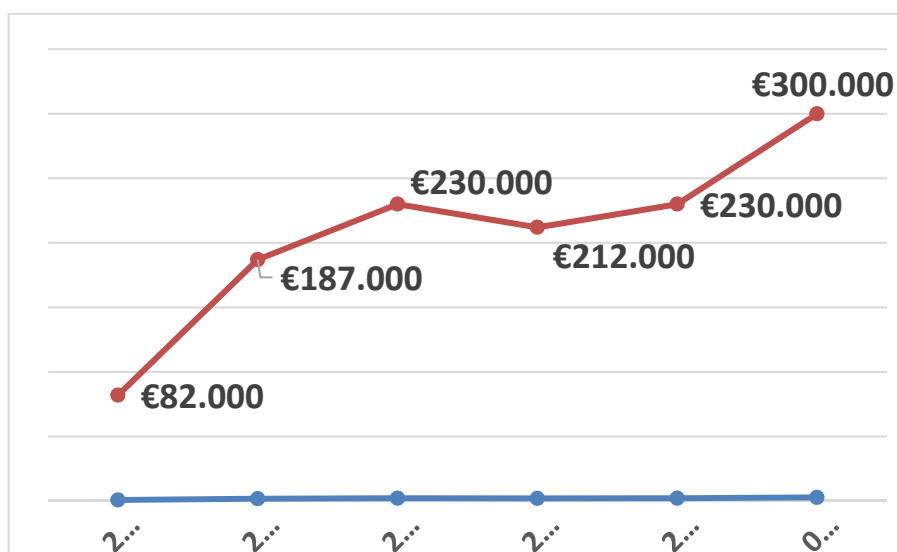

¹ ESA is a non-profit scientific association registered under the French Law and tax exempt in France.

(kindly supported by the President of the Fondation Maison des sciences de l'homme, Michel Wieviorka, as well as Olivier Bouin, board of directors).

- (3) Appointment of a second employee, Dr. Dagmar Danko (conference coordination, editor European Sociologist, editorial assistance 3rd ESA journal (planned: European Sociological Debate, in cooperation with RNs and NAs); development of an expert database for media contacts) since 3.10.2016.
- (4) Interim ESA website launched
- (5) New ESA website launched (www.europeansociology.org)
- (6) New ESA logo launched
- (7) New ESA database launched
- (8) New salary management and bookkeeping software (in progress) introduced
- (9) New salary structure (reference to CNRS classification schemes)
- (10) New interim employee Andreia Batista Dias (secretary) from April to September 2017. Interns Christine Frank (February to May 2017), Veronika Riedl (April to August 2017) and Thomas Caubet (June to August 2017).
- (11) Obstacle overcome: loss of the previously agreed conference site in Athens (need to identify a new conference venue in summer 2016, change of conference planning)
- (12) Obstacle overcome: employee's sick leave for four months in late 2016
- (13) Obstacle overcome: loss of the previous ESA office
- (14) Obstacle overcome: loss of the previous ESA website (hacking attack)
- (15) Major challenge overcome: operating the "old" system of manual activities in the ESA office while in parallel planning, organising and introducing new automated processes as well as all new processes around abstract submission and participant registration.
- (16) Result of the technical changes: New peak in ESA membership (increased by about 1/3):

year	2007	2009	2011	2013	2015	2017
members	758	1731	2126	1965	2118	2741 (+100 pending)
fees in €/estimat.	82,000	187,000	230,000	212,000	230,000	300,000

(17) ESA membership fees (estimated, 108 €/member)

(18) ESA 2017 Conference in Athens

- 3581 participants (new peak)
- 1332 new ESA members via conference registration
- 5160 abstract submissions
- acceptance rate varies from 47% to 99% (paper evaluation by 37 RNs/13 RS)
- 5288 users of ConfTool (registration system)
- new fee categories: unemployed (35), student group ticket (1).
- lowest conference fee since 2009 (average fee): 195 €

(19) Voters for the ESA elections

2009	2011	2013	2015	2017
440	457	329	779

D. International relations

The President has been invited to participate in conferences of the following National Associations and Centers of Sociology:

- China: Lanzhou (17.07.16)
- China: Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, Beijing (21.07.16)
- India: Bhubaneshwar (27.12.15)
- Israel: Tel Aviv (25.01.16)
- Macedonia, Former Yugoslav Republic of: Skopje (25.11.16)
- Portugal: Faro (08.07.16)
- Russia: St. Petersburg (10.11.16)
- Slovenia: Ljubljana (6.11.2015)
- Turkey: Ankara (01.12.16)

I delivered keynote speeches on themes such as “The tasks of sociology”, “Protest - how to understand people’s movements in Europe”, “Contemporary European Sociology: Conditions of Knowledge Production”, “Cultivating Differences - Rethinking Sociology with C. Wright Mills”. Chinese and Indian sociologists are eager to establish contacts and exchanges with European sociology. In addition, visiting and discussing with sociologists of different National Associations has been an eye-opener and has offered me further arguments for strengthening the inclusion strategy of the ESA.

From 2015 to 2017, I attended 11 meetings in Brussels for intensifying ESA’s role in advocating, in joint efforts with other organisations, for the social sciences in Europe.

E. ESA Executive Committee 2015-2017

01 Communication and Publications Committee

Marta Soler (chair), Lena Näre (co-chair), Elena Danilova, Monica Massari, Eleni Nina-Pazarzi, Csaba Szalo, Frank Welz

(European Sociologist & website; journals ES & EJCS, editorial boards, book-series, relations with publisher)

02 Conference Committee

Christian Fuchs (Chair), Nilay Cabuk Kaya, Tomas Kostelecky, Eleni Nina-Pazarzi, Frank Welz

(conference programme, ExeC-LOC-relations)

03 External Relations Committee

Frank Welz (chair), Sue Scott (chair, NA Council), Airi-Alina Allaste, Kathrin Komp, Marta Soler, Csaba Szalo

(relations with EASSH, ERC, ISE, National Associations / ISA and other bodies)

Council of National Associations: Sue Scott (chair, elected by NAs)

Kathrin Komp (chair, treasurer), Tomas Kostelecky, Ruth McDonald

(budget & financial report, financial decisions)

05 Nomination Committee

Helena Serra (chair), Ruth McDonald, Csaba Szalo, Krzysztof T. Konecki, Lukasz Posluszny.

06 Policy Committee

Kathrin Komp (chair), Laura Horn

07 Post-graduate Research Committee

Airi-Alina Allaste (chair 2016-2017, Monica Massari, Ruth McDonald, Lena Näre, Helena Serra (chair 2015-2016)

(PhD Workshop 2016 & ESA summer school 2017)

In 2015-2017, Executive Committee member Hans-Peter Müller could unfortunately not participate in meetings.

Despite a few extreme and unplanned additional challenges (or possibly even because of them), I very much enjoyed two years of serving for the ESA. I am really glad about the success of the long planned restructuration of the ESA headquarters and conference operations. For having enabled that, I am finally most thankful to all Executive Committee members 2015-2017, in particular, to the Chair of the Conference Committee, Christian Fuchs, the ESA Headquarters Coordinator, Dagmar Danko, and, from all my heart, to Apostolos G. Papadopoulos, Chair of the Local Organising team, Athens.

Frank Welz, August 2017

3. Treasurer's report 2015-2017 (Kathrin Komp)

Finance Committee: Kathrin Komp (treasurer), Tomas Kostecky, Ruth McDonald

In 2015, the fiscal year of the European Sociological Association (previously May to April) was shifted to be equal to the calendar year (January to December). Because of the transition, this report on the term of the executive committee of 2015-2017 Covers 20 months only, whereas reports on previous committees covered 24 months. Some specificities of the financial Statement are due to this shift. The revenues are lower, because royalties and editorial expenses support were paid only once within the reporting period, and because the registration deadline for the ESA Conference, which brings many membership fees, does not fall within the reporting period. Among the expenditures Stands out that the amount of salaries paid increased, which is due to the hiring of additional staff, and that more Research Network support was distributed, which was a decision by the previous executive committee to reduce the high surplus accumulated.

4. Reports from other Sub-Committees 2015-2017

Communication and Publications Committee 2015-2017 (Marta Soler-Gallart)

Members: Marta Soler-Gallart (Chair), Lena Näre (co-Chair), Elena Danilova, Monica Mas-sari, Eleni Nina-Pazarzi, Csaba Szalo, Frank Welz

European Sociologist. The former “Newsletter of the ESA” turned into “European Sociologist”, with a new format trying to make it more appealing to the ESA members. It changed format into three sections (For Sociology, From ESA, For Sociologists) and it is launched twice a year. All members are encouraged to contribute. Since 2017 it will be managed from the ESA Headquarters office. Especial thanks to Peter Holley for all the work during these years to develop the newsletter project.

ESA journals: Editors of “European Societies” and “European Journal of Cultural and Political Sociology” were invited to the Executive Committee meeting to report about journals’ achievements and challenges and discuss future paths. This will be done from now on, on yearly basis. “European Societies” chair of the Editorial Board had to be replaced, but instead Exec decided to eliminate this position and give more autonomy to the Editor (who will report annually). Reports from ES and EJPCS’ achievements were shared in the “European Sociologists” with all ESA members.

Open Access: After several debates, the Executive Committee has agreed that ESA should adopt and open access strategy for their publications in the long term. ES and EJPCS will remain with Routledge by now, but ESA will start a new journal in new OA format. The proposal is “European Sociological Debates”, new open access journal, using OJS software, published with a non-profit publisher and supported by the ESA headquarters’ office.

RN publications: There was a proposal from RN11 to start a new ESA journal: “Emotions and Society”. Executive Committee welcomed this initiative but considered there needs to be an RN policy about this type of proposals before launching an RN journal under ESA, due to associated costs to such project.

Website and social media: A new website and logo has been launched. The website has improved not only image but also possibilities for RN use and members’ participation. The Monthly Bulletin has turned into “ESA news” and will be linked to the announcements in the website (Opportunities). Future steps to be done: ESA Twitter and Facebook must be activated.

Conference: After the success in Prague, the Publications Committee organized a Midday Special session on “How to write a journal article and get it published”. Editors from the ESA journals “European Sociologist” and “European Journal of Cultural and Political Sociology” and the ISA journal “International Sociology” have been invited to debate with audience.

Conference Committee 2015-2017 (Christian Fuchs)

Members: Christian Fuchs (Chair), Nilay Cabuk Kaya, Tomas Kostelecky, Eleni Nina-Pazarzi, Frank Welz

Some key aspects and features of the 2017 ESA conference in Athens are the following ones:

- There were 3,155 registered participants and 2,912 scheduled presentations.
- The conference was organised in the form of 37 research networks, 16 research streams, 13 mid-day specials, 13 semi-plenaries, and 3 plenaries.
- A full-time ESA executive assistant was hired in the Paris office (Dr Dagmar Danko), whose work tasks include assisting the conference organisation. This work allows to avoid having to replicate many standardised tasks locally from scratch at each conference because many routines can be done via the Paris office and the executive assistant can be moved from one conference to the next.
- The number of plenary sessions was increased from two to three in order to give more space to general discussions of grand sociological challenges in contemporary society.
- The general assembly and the conference party were moved from the third to the last (fourth) conference day in order to make the last day more attractive.
- Semi-plenaries were offered in two variations: (a) a mode with suggested and invited speakers, (b) a mode with open submission on a theme, peer-review and selection of two speakers. At the 2017 conference, five semi-plenaries were organised in mode (a) and eight in mode (b).
- In 2017, the option existed for research networks to organise one keynote session, in which they feature one speaker whose topic is of particular relevance to the RN, along with discussants. Six RNs made use of this option.

For the 2019 conference, it was decided that the conference should take place in a part of Europe and in a country, where it had not been hosted before. Paris and France were a feasible choice. Universities in Paris have been actively addressed to host the conference.

National Associations 2015-2017 (Sue Scott)

Professor Sue Scott, Chair of the ESA National Associations Council

Communication:

I have tried very hard, in conjunction with the ESA office to keep the National Associations email list up to date and it is now a mail list managed by the office. This has not always been easy or successful, but the task should get easier now that we have a dedicated space in the new website for the National Associations which I hope will develop in to a place where NAs can communicate with each other as well as with the ESA.

Conferences:

It was agreed in conjunction with the President and via consultation with the NA representatives to hold the National Associations Conference in the run up the ESA Conference in Athens on August 29th 2017. Previously this meeting had been held in Paris in the October of the year between the ESA Conferences. It was felt that for many of the smaller associations the cost of sending a delegate to both a seperate NAs Conference and the ESA Conferences was just too much to bear. It was hoped that more delegates would attend both conferences if they were aligned. The 2017 NAs Conference is on the Theme of Research Assessment and Research Impact with keynotes from John Holmwood, University of Nottingham, and Marta Soller, University of Barcelona, followed by workshop discussions and feedback from the delegates on these issues in relation to sociology in their countries.

Sadly I was unable to attend the ISA Conference of National Associations in April 2017 because the date was changed at a late stage. I did however submit a presentation on the effects of 'neoliberal' policies on sociology ' which was presented by Professor Lynn Jamieson, President of the British sociological Association.

The State of Sociology in Europe:

I have attempted to gather information about the health (or otherwise) of Sociology, in Universities across Europe, by asking the representatives of the NAs to respond to a set of questions. I have had a number of responses and hope to elicit more, after which I will compile a short report for the European Sociologist. Suffice to say here that while sociology does not see to be under any targeted threat there are policies and their intended and unintended consequences, in many countries, which can make it difficult for our discipline to thrive

Elections:

The meeting on the 29th will also include a business meeting for the election of the next chair of the Council. I am unable to stand again as I have been nominated to stand as President. There are two candidates for this election:

Professor Linda McKie, University of Edinburgh, UK

Professor Sokratis Koniordos, University of Crete, Greece

It has been a privilege to act as Chair of the Council of National Associations and I wish its members well in the future.

PhD Committee 2015-2017 (Airi-Alina Allaste)

Summer school between conferences was organised by Helena Serra in New University of Lisbon- FCSH, PORTUGAL from June 19-21, 2016.

25 students were selected from 55 applications. Instructors included Helena Serra, Airi-Alina Allaste, Monica Massari, Ruth McDonald, Lena Näre and one additional lecture was given by a local instruction, Dalila Cerejo.

The Summer School was organised around the preparation of papers for publication. Students prepared written papers, which were pre-circulated to teachers and other students. The 2 days consisted of group work, a keynote from Monica Massari (“(Un)making Europe across the Mediterranean: trajectories and narratives of migrants en route”); a lecture on mixed methods from Dalila Cerejo; a presentation from Lena Näre on Publishing and Career Planning; and a Round Table session reflecting on the content of the papers (student rapporteurs from each group presented).

Pre-conference summer school is organised by Airi-Alina Allaste in Athens, Greece from August 26-28, 2017.

25 students (3 of them cancelled) were selected from 106 applications. Instructors included Airi-Alina Allaste, Helena Serra, Eleni Nina-Pazarzi, Monica Massari, Ruth McDonald, Lena Näre and one additional instructor to facilitate the media workshop - Katrin Tiidenberg.

The summer school, too, was organised around the preparation of papers for publication, in addition participants had to review one of their peer’s draft article. Lena Näre gave a general lecture on publishing. For the first time, this ESA Summer School also included a media session on public facing scholarship and media literacy (sharing scholarship with the public via media and via efficient self presentation on social media, etc). The media session included a lecture by Katrin Tiidenberg and session with feedback on PhD students’ pre-prepared assignments on public facing scholarship.

Research Networks Committee

Members: Laura Horn (chair, elected by RNs; RN Council chair, horn@ruc.dk), Nilay Cabuk Kaya, Elena Danilova, Ruth McDonald, Helena Serra

ESA currently has 37 research networks constituting the core of the organisations' activities, in sessions at the general conference as well as various other events such as mid-term conferences, PhD workshops etc. RNs have made crucial contributions to the overall growth and development of ESA, qualitatively as well as quantitatively. In the period 2015-2017, most RNs have successfully organised mid-term conferences for which they have received funding from ESA (up to 2500€).

RN relationship with ESA

The RN committee has been reviewing the mid-term funding applications according to criteria set out in the by-laws and RN guidelines. In general, the funding applications we received from RNs have been clear both in terms of content and budget. In a few cases, the committee had to ask for clarification and revision.

Overall, the relationship between the RNs and ESA has become more institutionalised, e.g. due to financial reporting requirements under French (accounting) law. It has also become clear that it is important to safeguard the interests of RNs in the overall organisation of ESA conferences, which also means increasing the communication between RNs and Executive. In general, RNs have been satisfied with the relationship with ESA.

Major ongoing issues for 2015-2017

- RNs have been consulted for the revision of the ESA by-laws, which specify various aspects of RN governance. The by-laws need to be approved by the General Assembly (possibly in an electronic vote). The RN guidelines have also been revised and will be put to vote in the RN Council in Athens.
- One of the issues that remain to be discussed is the question of financial administration and bank accounts. The proposed by-laws and guidelines clarify questions on e.g. how ESA money can be spent, and how funding can be carried forwards.
- RN coordinators are increasingly highlighting the high workload in RN boards, in particular regarding conference organisation. For some RNs, it has become difficult to recruit new board members. Similarly, it has been impossible to find more than one candidate for the RN Council Chair position, despite the controversies surrounding the election in the previous term.
- ESA has a new website and database which will make it easier for RN coordinators to access data on membership and communicate with their members. RNs can now also have their own pages on the ESA website. RNs should consider how they can make best use of these possibilities from now on.
- The Paris office continues to develop, after major restructuring in 2016/2017. The administrative support from the secretariat, as well as the work of Dagmar Danko, the ESA coordinator, is very much appreciated!

The RN Council meeting takes place on Tuesday 29 September 2017, 12.45 – 15.30 (Pantheon University PC.2.14), all RN coordinators and vice-coordinators are welcome.

On behalf of the RN Committee, many thanks to the RN coordinators and board members for their hard work for making 2015-2017 a successful period for their RNs!

RN membership as of 08/2017
